May 2009

PROJECT X POWERS TO VICTORY

Project X has claimed the Italian Open. The winner, completing his week with a stunning 65 produced some stunning approach shots to average over 72% for greens in regulation. The Argentinean, with Project X shafts in his irons finished top of the pile, and once again showed how impressive the Project X product is. Used by many of the world's top golfers the Project X offers many benefits to the golfer.

Project X shafts incorporate Stepless Design Technology where each individual shaft throughout the set is comprised of a specific taper length. This unique design feature optimises the flex distribution and energy transfer without scarifying control. Stepless Design technology provides tip stiffness for stronger players, producing greater accuracy with a smooth yet solid feel at impact and optimum trajectory and spin control.
